Assemblin acquires HVAC and building services company Premea

Assemblin Heating and Sanitation has acquired the plumbing and building services company Premea, with operations in Greater Stockholm, 12 employees and annual sales of approximately SEK 50 million.

Premea AB (“Premea”) was founded in 2009 and comprises 12 employees, with headquarters located in Bromma. Premea undertakes both service and project assignments within heating and sanitation, as well as construction services.

“Premea has a stable and reputable business and will be a favourable complement to our current Stockholm operations. We look forward to deepening our cooperation and it is with great pleasure that I can welcome Premea’s employees, customers and suppliers as part of Assemblin,” says Andreas Aristiadis, EVP and CEO of Assemblin Heating and Sanitation.

The customer base refers primarily to real estate companies, construction companies and public-sector clients.

“With Assemblin as the owner, we will be able to continue developing our operations, broaden the service offering as well as, focus and provide even more value to our customers” says Tobias Fagerborg, President of Premea.
